

Website Content: Disclaimer of Liability

Leo Cussen Institute (trading as Leo Cussen Centre for Law) endeavours to provide accurate, reliable and complete material on its website.

However the Institute expressly disclaims any liability with respect to the web content.

The Institute gives no warranty of accuracy, reliability and completeness as to such information, and no responsibility for loss arising in any way from or in connection with errors or omissions in any information provided (including responsibility to any person by reason of negligence) is accepted by the Institute or by any of its agents or employees.

The Institute does not warrant or represent that the information provided on its website is free of any computer virus or any defects or errors. The Institute is not liable to visitors to its website or any other party for any loss or damage however caused, whether by negligence or otherwise, resulting directly or indirectly from the use of its material on its website.

Information provided about subjects, topics, units, courses and any arrangements for courses are an expression of intent only and are not to be taken as a firm offer or undertaking. Leo Cussen Institute reserves the right to discontinue or vary such subjects, topics, units, courses or arrangements for courses at any time without notice and to impose limitations on enrolments in any course.

The Institute reserves the right at any time to make changes to its website as it deems appropriate.

The Institute does not accept responsibility for or endorse the content or condition of any linked site to or from its website; nor is any information on this website to be construed as legal advice.